MINUTES OF THE ADJOURNED ANNUAL MEETING.

(Held June 8, 1889, at Central Union Church.)

The meeting opened with singing by the Society and prayer by Rev. E. G. Beckwith. About sixty-five persons were present.

After remarks appropriate to the occasion by the incoming President, the minutes of the annual meeting were read and approved.

The reports of the Recording Secretary, the Treasurer, the Foreign and the Home Corresponding Secretary were read, accepted and ordered printed. It was voted that the report of the Treasurer be audited by the President in the absence of the Vice-President.

A selection of vocal music was then rendered by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hall, Misses Needham and Lishman, Mr. C. M. Cooke and Rev. A. D. Bissell, the last named gentleman also officiating at the piano.

The retiring President, Rev. W. B. Oleson, delivered an address on "Our Heritage and Our Inspiration," which was ordered printed.

In response to a call from the President, the Rev. O. P. Emerson made remarks in regard to the work among Hawaiians, referring especially to the meetings of Pastors and Delegates held during the week.

It was voted that 750 copies of the annual report be printed.

After singing the last stanza of the Missionary Hymn, the Society adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

W. F. FREAR, Recording Secretary.

MINUTES OF THE ADJOURNED ANNUAL MEETING.

(Held June 15, 1889, at Hon. Henry Waterhouse's.)

In the absence of the President and Vice-President the meeting was called to order by the Secretary, and Prof. A. B. Lyons was chosen to preside. About thirty persons were present.

After the usual singing and prayer, the minutes of the first adjourned annual meeting were read and approved. The collection amounted to $9.10. The President having arrived now took the chair.

The Society voted that the minutes of the annual and two adjourned annual meetings be printed.

Proposed amendments to the Constitution prepared by a committee appointed for the purpose were read as follows :

Article 6 to read,—“Any descendant of those who are or have been members of the American Protestant Mission to these Islands and the descendants of those admitted into the Society in accordance with Article 7 are entitled to join the Society by paying into the treasury the sum of ten dollars, which shall constitute one a life member, or the sum of two dollars and a half as an initiation fee and one dollar every year after the first, which shall constitute one an annual member. Annual members forfeiting the payment of their dues for two consecutive years shall lose the privilege of voting in the Society until arrears for that year shall have been paid.”

Article 7 to read,—“Any person not eligible for membership in this Society according to the provisions of Article 6 and desirous of becoming a member, may be permitted to do so upon the following conditions: (a) the recommendation to the Society of such person's name by a two-thirds vote of the Board of Managers; (b) by a two-thirds vote of the Society at any regular meeting; (c) by the payment into the treasury of such sum as will constitute such person an actual life or annual member."

These amendments having been moved and seconded, Miss M. A. Chamberlain moved as a substitute that Article 7 be made to read:

Article 7 to read,—“Any person not a descendant of those who are, or who have been members of the American Protestant Mission to these Islands, but who shall be in full sympathy with the aims and objects of this Society, and who shall prove this by contributing to its Treasury, either by Life or Annual Membership fees (the latter to be renewed annually, or the privilege of membership ceases) may be permitted to do so, by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting,” and that Article 10 be amended by striking out the clause “by consent of a majority of the Board of Managers,” and Section 3 of Article 2 of the By-laws by striking out the clause “The Board shall decide upon all applications for membership under Articles 7 and 10 of the Constitution.” This motion was ruled out of order.

Prof. A. B. Lyons moved (and the motion was seconded) that as a substitute for the amendment prepared by the Committee, Article 6 be made to read.

Article 6 to read,—“All descendants of those who are or have been members of the American Protestant Mission to the Hawaiian Islands, and all persons who are in active sympathy with the aims and objects of the Society as set forth in Article 2, are eligible to membership,” and (in order that the matter relating to conditions of membership, fees, etc., might be relegated to the By-Laws) that the first article of the By-laws embracing matter included in the amendment proposed by the Committee should read as follows :

“SECTION 1. Descendants of those who are or have been members of the American Protestant Mission to the Hawaiian Islands are entitled to the privileges of membership on condition merely of paying into the Treasury the regular membership fees. The names of other applicants must be presented to the Society through its Board of Managers (or in the case of an auxiliary society through a local Board similarly constituted) at a regular meeting. A vote of two-thirds of the members present shall be required for election.

"SECTION 2. The initiation fee of the Society, required from annual members only, shall be one dollar.

"SECTION 3. Annual members shall pay into the treasury each year, in advance, the sum of one dollar as annual dues.

"SECTION 4. Payment into the treasury at one time of ten dollars shall constitute one a life member, exempt from payment of annual dues."

Dr. C. M. Hyde offered another substitute as follows:

"A list of all members of the American Protestant Mission enrolled as Founders of the Hawaiian Mission shall be printed each year at the head of the list of members of the Society. All children of these missionaries are by virtue of birth eligible to membership. The privileges of membership are open also to any other person in active sympathy with the objects of this Society who may be recommended by the Board of Managers. All descendants of original members are eligible to membership by virtue of such descent."

After a prolonged discussion the whole matter was laid on the table.

It was then resolved, on motion by Rev. H. Bingham, "that it is the sentiment of this Society that the time has come when there shall be but one class of members and that life members."

The Society voted that the above mentioned substitute offered by Dr. Hyde be printed in the minutes and expressed a desire that the original proposed amendment and the other offered substitutes also be printed.

It was voted that a committee of five, to consist of Rev. S. E. Bishop, Prof. A. B. Lyons, Mrs. L. B. Coan, Dr. C. M. Hyde and Rev. W. B. Oleson, prepare changes that may be required in the Constitution and By-laws and report the same to be acted upon at the next annual meeting.

The Gilbert Island Training School was dropped from the list of appropriations for this year, and $500 were appropriated for the Mortlock and Ruk missions.

Miss E. B. Knight was elected to fill the place of Miss Helen A. Pepoon resigned as editor of the "Maile Wreath."

The Secretary as a committee of one appointed for the purpose, reported that all changes which appear by the records of the past eighteen years to have been made in the Constitution and By-Laws are correctly published in the last annual report, excepting that the word "approved" is erroneously omitted immediately before the words "by a two-thirds vote" in the second paragraph of Article 10 of the Constitution. This report was accepted and ordered printed.

Hon H. A. P. Carter and Mrs. Carter being called upon made interesting remarks.

After singing the first stanza of the Missionary Hymn, the Society adjourned to hold its next regular monthly meeting at the residence of Hon. W. O. Smith.

Respectfully submitted,

W. F. FREAR, Recording Secretary.

REPORT OF THE RECORDING SECRETARY.

The Historical Committee consisted of Prof. W. D. Alexander, Mrs. L. B. Coan and Rev. S. E. Bishop.

The monthly meetings have been mostly occupied with readings of the Maile, selections of vocal and instrumental music rendered by many different persons, reading of letters by the Foreign Corresponding Secretary, occasional remarks by members of the Historical Committee, discussions on various topics of interest and the transaction of business. For proceedings at the annual and adjourned annual meetings reference is directed to the minutes of those meetings.

Respectfully submitted,

W. F. FREAR, Recording Secretary.

REPORT OF HOME CORRESPONDING SECRETARY.

The time of our annual meeting soon comes around and brings with it reports of the progress of our work as a society. We can feel that the aid we render in this good work is not without avail.

From Mr. Burt we hear of Hilo Boys' Boarding School. Though small in number, it has been prosperous. During the three years I have been in the school, I have not before observed so much interest in work and faithfulness in studies as the boys have manifested during the year past. The Government appropriated $500 to Hilo Boarding School to be devoted to repairs and permanent improvements. This sum has been expended for materials; the work has been done entirely by our own boys. The money has enabled us to put the buildings in good shape. It is with the utmost satisfaction, that I report, that each boy has a room, and they appreciate the change. The great bugbear of the school, is "How to make both ends meet." We render the annual thanks for the help rendered by the society to meet our difficulty. Mrs. Burt and Miss Ellen Lyman have rendered most efficient service in conducting the school. In June 1890, Mr. Burt expects to end his connection with the school.

Kawaiahao Seminary as we know, began the work of the year with teachers, who with the exception of one, were new to the work, and each has filled her place well. Miss Pepoon says, "There have been one hundred and forty-four pupils enrolled during the year. Neither teachers nor pupils have been dangerously ill while here and very little sickness in the school." "One girl was called home on account of her father's illness and death, and soon after word comes that she, too, is gone."

"About the middle of the year, our hearts were very much saddened by the rapid development of that dread disease, in the case of a little eleven years old girl, who had been in the school nine years. It seemed a terrible thing to send the dear child away among strangers. We had a siege of whooping-cough, which was very trying."

"As the faculty were brought together at the beginning of the year, eight were entire strangers, and only one had been in the work before."

"Eighteen girls united with Kawaiahao Church, last communion."

"The Lima Kokua Society has been successfully carried on. The faithful work of Mrs. Coan has been thoroughly appreciated. She with Mrs. A. F. Cooke, Secretary, and Miss Grace Brewer, Vice-President, and Miss M. Brewer, Treasurer, has had entire charge of the meetings. The teachers of Kawaiahao Seminary are very grateful to Mrs. McCully, for her faithful labor in the weekly prayer meetings. Dr. Beckwith's Monday morning visits have been a great encouragement and pleasure to us. We have had two musicales, one was especially for the parents and friends of the girls, who seemed greatly pleased."

"Our needs are rapidly being supplied, and when we have better facilities for bathing and accommodations for washing and ironing, we shall consider ourselves well equipped for work. Forty-seven girls are supported by friends of the school, and friends at the Christmas festival of the Central Union Church Sabbath School kindly promised $100 for two others." Since the Cousins' Society have raised their donation for this year, three more girls will be provided for.

"The work of the year has been hard, but we have had many things to cheer us. In many delightful homes have we been cordially welcomed, but most of all have we appreciated the words of encouragement and expressions of confidence that have come to us from some."

CHINESE MISSION SCHOOLS.

Mr. F. W. Damon reports of that work : "It is pleasant to note the attendance of so large a number of boys and girls in our different schools. The two Boys' Schools under the care of Miss Payson and Miss Mary Kwai Shin have been carried forward as in other years. The Girls' School has become an important agency in our mission work." Forty-seven girls have been connected with the school this year. "In addition to the regular school work, our faithful lady teacher, Miss May Green, has visited in many homes, and has given regular instruction there to three girls. Five of our pupils have returned to China. One has been called to the Shepherd's fold above."

"Two of our former pupils now at Kawaiahao Seminary have united with the Church, while another, now married to a Chinese husband, has lately sent to us for the Scriptures to read with her husband. Most faithful, too, are our Chinese teachers and are worthy of our cordial Christian friendship. Most truly do we appreciate the generous gifts of the Cousins' Society to our work, which we feel are not bestowed in vain."

Miss Carpenter of East Maui Seminary sends us the following relative to that institution:

"There have been 76 girls in the Seminary the past year. With the exception of Mary Pali, who is to teach, the beneficiaries of your society, are the same. A daughter of Rev. O. Nawahine of Waihee takes her place.

"Mrs. Locke and Miss Anderson have the places of Miss Potter and Miss Cameron. The extra gift of $300 from some of the Cousins will pay for iron bed-steads, now on the way to us, for the school. I wish in behalf of the Seminary to express gratitude for your interest in its welfare."

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN L. HILLEBRAND.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDING SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Very early in the year we had a precious object-lesson in consecration. There came to Honolulu a most lovely and noble matron, Superintendent of Wisconsin's State Asylum for the Blind, bringing her fair young daughter as an offering for the Master's work in the islands beyond.

No one who saw the cheerful bearing and Christian composure of mother and daughter while they spent last days together at this mid-ocean station, can ever forget the lesson. Thus far Mrs. Little had accompanied Miss Alice on her way, but duties at her own post of honor and responsibility enforced a prompt return. On the 12th of July, the Morning Star sailed for

MICRONESIA.

The only reinforcement for that needy field were Miss Little for Kusaie, and Rev. Alfred Snelling for Ruk. We rejoiced greatly for early news that the Star reached her ports safely and in time; but we are indignant that, hereafter, at the dictum of those who have taken possession of the Marshall Islands, our little Missionary ship must first report to German authorities at Jaluit before she may proceed further west. Several weeks earlier than she was looked for, the Star was again in our harbor on the 6th of March. Her missionary passengers were Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Treiber and babe from Ruk, Miss Fletcher with two little native girls, and Mr. Rand from Ponape, Mr. Walkup with his three children from Kusaie. How sad an exodus this seemed—so few left to hold the forts, and, so far as we knew, no one in readiness to fill the places of these who through failing health, or lost by bereavement, must for a season fall out of the ranks. Another grave in Micronesia holds the dust of one who had been a faithful worker there. Mrs. Walkup of the Gilbert Island mission died at Kusaie, August 16, 1888. This in-scrutable providence breaks up for the present, the Training School of which Mr. Walkup had charge. He needed to bring his three motherless children home to be cared for by friends in the States. Miss Fletcher after seven years of devoted toil, returns, a very shadow of herself, for rest among her kindred. It was most cheering to hear her testimony that of all the pupils whom she had trained in the Boarding School on Ponape, not one had gone back into evil ways. In her absence the girls are left in charge of Dr. Ingersoll and Miss Palmer, but both these ladies suffer from the climate and are not strong. Mr. Doane writes hopefully and with heart full of thanksgiving that thus far the Spaniards have not materially interfered with the mission.

A very glad welcome the missionaries on Kusaie gave Miss Little. She entered at once upon work in the school for Marshall and Gilbert Island girls, a worthy coadjutor for brave Miss Smith, who in three years has acquired three languages and who shows a wonderful adaptedness to her responsible position. As in the past, so now, again, our messages from Dr. and Mrs. Pease are full of faith and cheer, notwithstanding the uncertainties of the future from the present outlook.

Late advices from Boston inform us that on account of health neither Miss Fletcher nor Mr. Rand will be able to return by this trip of the Star to Micronesia; that Mr. Walkup will tour among the Gilbert Islands; that Rev. Mr. Forbes of Canada is for the coming year, to take Mr. Rand's place on Ponape; and that Mrs. Logan will return to Ruk, being accompanied by Mrs. Snelling, in whose severe disappointment at not being able to go thither when her husband went, we deeply sympathized. Mr. and Mrs. Treiber remain in the States.

OTHER MISSIONARY COUSINS.

To those in Mexico, Spain, Turkey, Persia, China and Japan, we have sent our Annual Report, but from Miss Van Duzee of Salmas, and Mrs. Shepard of Aintab, only, have we received acknowledgement of reception. Of her work the former writes: "It has been largely confined to our own enclosure and those coming within it; providing food, seeing to the ways and means of having it cooked, keeping the machinery oiled, and stopping the creaking where the oil gave out before I knew it, among servants and scholars, starting the every day routine and keeping it going, day after day. * * * The latter part of the winter I began a weekly evening class for large boys and young men, singing with them, giving oral astronomy lessons and closing with reading the Bible and prayer. I began with two and closed with forty-five."

Mrs. Shepard writes: "I am, indeed, very grateful for the yearly report of the "Cousins" which is a most welcome visitor to our home. In response to the card for the "Working Fund" of the Society, I sent ten dollars in the form of a membership for our little Alice. I would gladly do more, but could you know how many calls for help come to us every day from the poverty-stricken and almost starving about us, and from the weak little churches in our villages, that are being forsaken by the American Board, you would not wonder that what we have to give is exhausted by these near demands. Our work as physicians takes us into the homes, or rather hovels of the poorest of the poor, and we see daily such misery and suffering as would break our hearts, were we not sure that God reigns, and He has some wise purpose in permitting such woe to exist."

Miss Gulick in Kumamotu reports: "Our schools grow apace in spite of over crowded quarters, and our church increases some, mostly from the schools. The Boarding school has overflowed its accommodations, and seven or eight of the boarders have to lodge out with neighbors. A lot has been bought and the contract let for building, which is to be done partly on borrowed money. We personally contribute to the school and the building, but the Board does nothing directly for either."

We have no direct word from the Smiths in China; but we have been allowed the reading of some of Mrs. Smith's wonderfully interesting letters to her sister, Mrs. Merritt. In no other letters do we have brighter views of what the Gospel can do in uplifting and transforming benighted souls.

GENERAL CORRESPONDENCE.

We mention with gratitude the kindness of Rev. F. Rouse, an adopted cousin, in giving us his new address when he settled at West Superior, Wisconsin. We also thank the friend who calls our attention to the fact that Albert S. Howard belongs in Townsend, Mass., not in Los Angeles, Cal. These helps about localities are most fully appreciated.

Pleasant letters from Mrs. Kittredge tell us of their satisfaction in the new home at Santa Barbara, and of their pleasure in keeping en rapport with island cousins.

"We talk a great deal," Mrs. K. writes, "to our friends here about the islands, and always find them ready listeners."

During the scourge of yellow fever in Florida last summer, the Reynolds' family fled from their home in St. Augustine to the mountains of North Carolina. Their sojourn of many weeks there gave them much insight into the degradation and ignorance of the "poor whites" in that section.

The annual letter from Gen. Armstrong we count as one of our special blessings. He reviews most pleasantly our last Report of which he shows himself a careful reader, and calls it "a bond of union of great value." He sets us thinking by his questions and tells us of his own work, all so freely and naturally that we almost believe him to be present in propria persona. He expresses surprise that our usual attendance at the monthly gathering has not been larger, and that but forty-five were at the annual meeting. "There used to be a crowd," he adds.

Yes, good cousin, but that was in the days when Blue Ribbon Leagues and Concerts, Shows and entertainments were not so numerous as now. Nevertheless, we who attend "Cousins Society" mourn that so many do not. General Armstrong tells us of "a fine, popular fellow" who is at the Hampton Institute learning the tailor's trade, an Hawaiian who sold his horse and reached the school at an expense of less than $100. There is also there, "a jolly little Chinaman, smart and quick and happy as a lark, learning the engineer's trade." "Your Chinese work" the General writes, "is most important. I should say increase in that direction if in any, for hard as they are, they are a strong race and need the leaven of Christianity. No one knows their power over the future of the islands. Look out for them."

Through the kindness of Prof. Alexander we have had the reading of a letter from Mrs. Mary Tinker. The writing is clear and firm and her reminiscences awakened by the perusal of the Memorial of Father Alexander are vivid and sprightly. One could hardly believe the writer was in her eightieth year. With two grand-daughters she lives in the same house in Westfield, N. Y., that has been her home for forty-four years, and where she has welcomed many a dear brother and sister missionary.

Mrs. Houston writing of their home missionary work in Iowa, says: "We do touring in the stations around, just as if we were in Ponape."

Our dear Mrs. Logan since her return to the States has spent most of the time with her aged parents in Stanton, Michigan. At the request of the Woman's Board of the Interior she visited St. Louis in the autumn, and in her modest way says, "I helped a little in the work." She adds—"the feeling that I was being of service was much to me. * * * I count it as a large blessing to be thankful for that I can have Arthur in such a home (that of the Churches in Greenville). Beulah is in school here. She is much company for me, and a comfort all the time."

Full pages from Mrs. Church tell us of their busy life.

Charles and Arthur had graduated from Greenville High School and were to enter Oberlin. Speaking of Mrs. Little's recognizing the call for Miss Alice as from the Lord, she says : "I have long felt that I would cheerfully say "Go," if one of our children should seem to have a similar call."

From Miss Norton, we learn that she has entered upon service connected with the Home Missionary Society in their New Education work for the West.

PERSONNEL.

Among the correspondents and donors of the Society the past few years has been Rev. O. P. Emerson. His interest in the land of his birth, and in our work here and beyond, has been such that we were not surprised at his consent to leave his parish in New England to fill the post left vacant by our lamented cousin Forbes. A remarkable retention of the native language in his memory has aided him in entering effectively upon his duties as Secretary of the Hawaiian Board. The desires of our hearts for reinforcements in this Island vineyard have been in part realized in the coming of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Westervelt. A graduate of Oberlin, and for some years a pastor in Denver, Mr. Westervelt has training and experience that must make him a valuable worker. He comes to the field with an enthusiasm like that of the earlier laborers here.

Another valuable acquisition to our ranks is Dr. A. B. Lyons, so long resident in Detroit, now Professor of Natural Science in Oahu College. The community and the college are esteemed most fortunate in securing this citizen and instructor. His charming wife enters our circle and shares in its tasks as if to the manor born.

Those of us who knew and loved one of the early missionaries, see her counterpart in the dear young girl who came at the beginning of the year to teach in Kawaiahao Seminary. Grace Brewer is very like her grandmother, Mrs. Clarissa Richards. We thank the cousins, Professor Brewer and wife, that they spare this treasure to us. And in behalf of Turkey we thank them that they sent another daughter thither.

May Green, descendant of the missionary stock, both on the mother's and the father's side, has been the past year, a beloved and successful teacher in the Chinese School, under the superintendence of our consecrated cousins, Frank W. and Mary Happer Damon.

At the "Punahou Preparatory" we find in its fine corps of teachers Helen S. Chamberlain, well fitted for the place by instruction at the Rockford Seminary. Passing on to that noble institution, the "Kamehameha School," we shall note that President Oleson has honored the Cousins by electing to the faculty Mary Hillebrand, graduate of Mt. Holyoke, and Lilian and Levi Lyman, highly esteemed graduates of our own Oahu College. From Mills Seminary we have as teacher at Kawaiahae, Henrietta Frear, daughter of our former beloved Pastor Frear.

On Kauai, those earnest movers in good works, Dr. Jared Smith and his sister Juliette, have been active in devising plans for an industrial school on their Island.

The Government has shown its appreciative recognition of Dr. Frances Wetmore's success in her profession, by appointing her Government Physician at Hilo; while at the same place, the Hawaiian Bar admits to practice Almeda Hitchcock, after graduation from the Law School of the Mich. State University.

From the same University comes Charles L. Carter to be Attorney at Law in his childhood's home, and to give cordial and grateful help to our monthly meetings as Editor of "Maile Wreath."

That we have such a force of young workers, so eminently of the sometimes contemned "missionary party," is cheering and hopeful. We think of those who have gone forth to school and college in the homeland and represent us at Andover, Auburndale and Yale, at Wellesley, Cornell and Oberlin, and we believe that from among these earnest students there will return to their loved aina hanau other helpers in the Kingdom of our Lord, or that, if needed more in lands remote, they will hold themselves attent to any call of duty. That Horace Hall at Oberlin has joined the band of missionary volunteers and hopes some day to work in Japan is cause of rejoicing to us all.

In a recent addition of fifty-nine communicants to the membership of the Central Union Church, twenty-nine were boys and girls of our H. M. C. S. Shall we not look for grand aids from them in evengelical work hereafter?

The year has been one of marked prosperity to Hawaii nei, and our business cousins have largely shared in its good fortunes. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth." We have confidence that they who increase will also scatter. The Maui cousins have been prominent promoters of the fine, new church at Paia, pronounced the prettiest on the Islands. The Honolulu cousins will be liberal contributors to the building fund of the church soon to be erected on the corner of Richard and Beretania streets. Our enlarged appropriations for the coming year show growth in our benevolences.

More than ever, perhaps, has our society during the year fallen into line with the great traveling public. The brothers, Charles and Frank Cooke, went to Stockholm, Sweden, to attend a Y. M. C. A. convention. In Paris they met May Atherton, Mary Alexander and Mrs. Mary (Dame) Hall. Mrs. J. T. Waterhouse, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. H. Waterhouse visited their children at Oberlin. Mr. Waterhouse took part in a delightful convention of Y. M. C. A's. at Toledo, and then went on to Washington to have a sight of that famed city during a President's inauguration. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Castle go to participate in the Centennial celebration at New York. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atherton left us by the May steamer to join the Alexanders of Oakland, and Baldwins of Haiku in an excursion to the World's Exposition at the great French Capital. Mr. Walsh, touring through the continent, intends pushing on to Egypt and the Holy Land.

Nor are these all; for in the lists of arrivals and departures of those crossing the ocean to and fro, occur the names of more than a hundred of our cousin band. We have gladly welcomed back Miss Turner, who resumes her valuable work at Kohala, and Carrie Castle in whose rare musical talent we take delight. We have parted with regret from Miss Alexander and Miss Appleton who return to the States. We have lost, too, our efficient Recording Secretary, H. K. Hyde, for whom there were strong attractions in the home-land. Yesterday's steamer bore away the large family of George Dole, who go to settle amid the grape-vines and orange groves of Southern California. The incoming steamer of this beautiful morning brings to us Hon. H. A. P. Carter and family, so many years absent from us; Mrs. Persis (Thurston) Taylor and her daughter, M^{rs}. Kluegel with her children; also Mrs. H. L. (Dickson) Howard.

DEATHS.

We come to this page of our Report with sad hearts. We have suffered loss; and precious names, for years representing active members of our circle, and honored missionary mothers whom we have held dear, will henceforth stand in the list of those who are no more with us.

Died in Jacksonville, Florida, from heart disease, Col.

Wm. J. Forbes, on the 15th of June, 1888, aged 52 years.

At Ware, Mass., June 24, 1888, Hon. Wm. Hyde, aged 81.

In the beautiful home of her children at Haiku, Mrs. M. A. Alexander, during the brief years of her widowhood, had been tenderly cherished by her daughters, Mrs. Emily Baldwin and Mrs. Annie Dickey. Her sweet gratitude for all she enjoyed, her gentle patience in waiting for the Master's call will never be forgotten. But it was 'not long to wait, or Heaven far to go.' On the night of June 29th, there was a hasty summons, and she went joyfully forth to be received by Him who had made ready a place for her.

Far away from home, seeking health that he might do more valiant service for his Lord, Rev. A. O. Forbes was looking forward with eager expectation to the coming of his wife, and then to a return with her to his chosen field. We had rejoiced in news that assured us of his improvement, and we had given our Godspeed to Mrs. Forbes as she sailed July 3rd to meet her husband. Alas for her and the bereaved children! She was met on arrival at San Francisco by the crushing intelligence that on the 8th of the month Mr. Forbes had suddenly passed from the earthly life to the land beyond our ken. Alas for us all. But for him the joyful welcome, and the guerdon of the faithful servant.

July 28th, Hon. S. G. Wilder, aged 57 years, died at his residence in Honolulu. The Friend contains this just tribute. "Mr. Wilder was an experienced and sagacious leader in public affairs. He was successful and enterprising in business, but especially honored for the noble public spirit which made his enterprise tributary to the public welfare."

At Oroville, California, Sept. 25th, of pneumonia, Charles H. Wilcox, aged 50 years.

At Weatogue, Conn., Mrs. E. (Boyd) Dodge, Oct. 22nd.

The sweet babe lent to earth for a brief day preceded the mother to the heavenly home by a few hours.

Greatly beloved by friends, esteemed by all who knew her, and gracing with queenly dignity the station of wealth and culture in which she moved, it seemed as if Mrs. Dodge were held to earth by ties too strong to be early broken. But she was neither unmindful of life's uncertainties nor unprepared for any change.

A little while before her going, she wrote thus to her sister, Mrs. Pratt: "Yes, I am rich in the prayers of loved ones, and if life awaits me, may it be spent to God's glory; but if, on the contrary, this is to be the chariot to take me to Jesus, may I be ready and my dear ones reconciled. Pray for this; for whichever way it is to be, it must be God's will, and who of us would want to change that?"

One month more speeded its course, and on the 22nd of November, Mrs. Laura (Judd) Dickson was called to the rest eternal. Her health had been failing for several years, and friends who knew how untiringly she spent herself for others, feared that the brave heart would too soon wear out its tenement. But in the summer of 1888 she returned from a rest of some months in the States, with new lease of life, as we hoped. The dear mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Dickson, was then passing gently down to the river's brink, and our cousin Laura gave her the ministrations of most filial devotion to the end. Grandma Dickson fell asleep at the advanced age of 89 years and 8 months. Our cousin after this suffered from nervous prostration and from complications of disease that no human aid was to relieve. She again sought the more bracing climate of the Coast; but the journey was only a stage nearer home. The appointed time had come for her to enter

"The peace of all the faithful
The calm of all the blest."

Two days later, in her home at Waialua, on November

24th, the beloved Mother Emerson, ripe in years, went to her crowning in the Palace of the King; one more amid the throng of the redeemed, one more among those who "sing as it were a new song before the throne."

On the 2nd of November, the young wife of Frank Green died at Worcester, Mass., leaving two little children to the care of the bereaved husband. Will she not watch and wait for their coming to the heavenly home?

In the midst of sweetest ministries—the joyful giving of gifts to other children—in the early Christmas morn, Charlie Oleson, aged 12, met the swift and fatal stroke, that, ere the shades of night had fallen, was to unbar for him the gates of everlasting day. Hearts ached and were stunned with the blow, and we could not at once read the lesson. At the funeral exercises little John, aged 3, sobbed out his sorrow, and the loving mother folded him to her bosom in comforting embrace. But he missed the older brother and seemed to think only of going where he was. When but thirteen days of the New Year had passed, the angels bore him thither, and the stricken parents counted two of their darlings in heaven. In their Christian submission and life of trust we may read the power of sustaining grace, while we note with grateful hearts God's use of his dispensations to lead souls to Him.

At Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 30, 1889, Mary H. (Thurston) Benfield exchanged life's trials and sorrows for the bliss of the ransomed.

At St. Augustine, Fla., March 6, 1889, Mary W. (Moseley) Crocker. One who watched daily beside her dying bed, writes: "Such patience beyond comparison; such entire freedom from murmuring that she was so far from home and family and life-long friends; such watchful thought for those who ministered to her; such calmness and composure in giving directions for the funeral services in her Chicago home; her messages to friends—these are strong proofs of the sustaining power of our most holy religion." To her daughter, Lillie, she left the message to be both mother and sister to Charlie, and when she had trouble or anything went wrong to go right to the Lord with all her burdens.

In the early Spring, three little ones went back to heaven after brief sojourn here. At Orange, N. J., David Holmes' Alice, aged 2; at Brooklyn on the 1st of March, George Rowell's wee babe, three weeks old; and at Wai-mea, April 11th, Mrs. Stolz' little Malcolm Rowell. All "safe now in the arms of Jesus," at home in

"The Land beyond the Sea!
O how the lapsing years,
Mid our not unsubmitive tears,
Have borne, now singly, now in fleets the biers
Of those we love, to thee,
Calm Land beyond the Sea.

The Land beyond the Sea!
Sweet is thine endless rest;
But sweeter far that Father's breast,
Upon thy shores eternally possessed,
For Jesus reigns o'er thee,
Calm Land beyond the Sea."

Respectfully submitted,

LYDIA BINGHAM COAN.

ADDRESS OF THE RETIRING PRESIDENT REV. W. B. OLESON.

OUR HERITAGE AND OUR INSPIRATION.

God gives no man work to do without giving abundant inspiration to sustain and stimulate him in all his endeavors. Where an urgent duty exists, there likewise exists alongside it an adequate inspiration to call out the highest type of consecration and endeavor. Not infrequently an obligation holds within itself, in embryo, latent powers of invigoration and sustenance that are waiting for consecrated purpose to unfold and develop their beneficence. We inherit obligations, but we inherit the inspiration to hold us true to such responsibilities, and to kindle into fresh glow our consecration to the Master's service.

It is to such an obligation and to such an inspiration that I wish to direct your attention this evening. Exceptional opportunities for personal effort and for united Christian service are presenting themselves, and the obligation rests heavily upon this organization as one of the agencies for sustaining Christian effort in these islands, to seize the opportunity and to recover for Protestant Christianity somewhat of its former prestige here.

It is beginning to be mooted in our magazine literature whether Protestantism possesses permanent elements of success as a missionary force. There are indications here both in the present status of our Hawaiian churches and in the comparative feebleness with which our Protestant agencies cope with the problem of evangelizing the non-Christian elements in our population that, in the minds of certain writers of the Canon Taylor class, are proof positive of the decadent influence of Protestantism as a missionary agency. But we, who are acquainted with the situation, know well enough that this condition of things is not indicative of inherent weakness in our religion but rather of a woeful absence of adequate forces to give proper impact to the power of our faith.

There should be no disheartenment because there is so much about us needing to be done that is not being done. Protestantism having made signal triumphs in these islands that have thrilled the world, is not going to flicker out now like an exhausted candle. What it has done is the measure of what it can do, and what it must do toward the redemption of this land for Christ. It is puerile to say or think that the power which has wrought such changes here in the past sixty years is not equal to the task of coping successfully with the altered conditions of Christian endeavor now. Our Protestant agencies need to be rehabilitated, not superseded. The present movement to introduce new missionaries into this field, so auspiciously begun, is indicative of an aroused sense of obligation; and in the light of the historical development of Christianity, the arousal of the sense of obligation for work needing to be done has always been the precursor of a definite advance and triumph of Christian forces. When Christian conscience is fairly awakened to the pressure of obligation, evangelistic enterprises in every direction feel the impetus and flow of new life.

Let us look anew at the obligations pressing upon this community and upon this Society as a missionary organization. These obligations are known to us all, none being present this evening who have not in greater or less measure felt their burden, but it is well that we look at them once more as we pause for a moment at the threshold of another year's outlook.

There can certainly be no greater obligation resting upon us as our inheritance from the past than that we should see to it that the conquests of other years are not lost through default. It is essential to the integrity of Protestant missions the world around that the scenes of former triumphs of the Gospel in the Hawaiian Islands should not become the scene of signal defeat. The obligation is a very strenuous one that the successes of Protestant endeavor in the past should be conserved in the interests of the human souls who are to be redeemed and sustained in Christian living. It is matter also of vital concern to existing Christian institutions here, and to the continuance of a fruitful and vigorous piety among such as are already Christian believers, that the past should be eclipsed even by an aggressive and conquering faith and zeal. But it is above all of utmost importance to the cause of Protestant Christian missions everywhere that there should be no retrograde movement here, but that, on the contrary, there should be tangible and abundant evidence of the value and constancy of Protestantism as a missionary force.

The fact has been published world-wide by missionary organizations that the Hawaiian Islands have become Christianized, as undoubtedly they have, and the fact has been dwelt upon as a motive to the speedy culmination of missionary effort in other lands. Meanwhile the gradual disappearance of the forces that brought about the great transformation in life here, has effected a most natural result, and visitors from abroad discover that the glowing descriptions of the former days are not a truthful representation of the present estate of Protestant Christian effort in these islands. Thus the honor of all who have had part in the redemptive work of other years is at stake, and every mission enterprise in the world is vitally affected by the status of Protestant missions here. Hence there is an exceedingly strenuous obligation resting upon all concerned to see to it that the conquests of other years are not lost through default.

There is likewise an urgent obligation in the opportunities conveyed to us from the past. This is not new mission ground, where standing room must be secured for Christian truth, and where agencies for Christian effort must be newly organized, and where all the foundation work of Christian institutions is yet to be laid. On the contrary there has come down to us a heritage of Christian opportunity in the established agencies for Christian effort, in the access afforded Gospel truth to the mass of the people, in the prestige of previous conquests of the word of God, and in the hospitable welcome which our Hawaiian brethren are waiting to extend to reinforcements from abroad. This is our opportunity, and it should be seized in a spirit of the largest devotion to the world-wide interests of Christ's Kingdom. Paul and Luke and Mark responded to the call which sent them far hence to the Gentiles, but Peter and James and John abode at Jerusalem strengthening that which remained of true religion among the Jewish nation and fanning it into the glow of Christian purpose. If the call which brought to these islands the early American missionaries was sufficient to justify the sacrifice and life-long devotion of those fearless men and women, the opportunity bequeathed to us to take up the agencies which once wrought so wonderful a work of grace here contains in itself an obligation no less imperative than the original call to the missionary fathers to cast their lot in this island kingdom. I believe there is no question as to the wisdom of that early consecration of able men and women to the work of the Redeemer in this isolated and comparatively insignificant portion of our great, teeming world. I believe that it is regarded as a masterly stroke of Christian strategy that here in the highway of the nations, a Christian civilization has been planted and nurtured until now its beneficent influence is recognized gratefully in other lands. It is certainly no less the part of wisdom and Christian generalship to hold for Christ what has been so signally won for him, and no less imperative that able and consecrated men and women who can labor to great purpose, for instance, in a land like Japan, much as the early missionaries here might have done had their steps been guided thither, should heed the call to continue the effectiveness of Christian agencies among the Hawaiian people.

The fathers won a place in the confidence and affection of the native race by their real and abiding interest in Hawaiians as men and women in need of salvation, and justly entitled to the expenditure of whatever talent and strength and means were at command in promoting evangelical piety among them. A pressing obligation rests upon this Christian community and upon each and every man and woman who would hope to accomplish real and abiding results among Hawaiians to manifest the same kindly interest and to be as transparently devoted to their spiritual welfare as were those who captured this people by their self-sacrificing love. The victories of grace in the years to come as in the years that are gone will follow victories of love and of kindly interest and bearing toward those for whom the special evangelistic effort now contemplated is intended.

It is one of the incidental evils of the social development of our foreign white population that the ties which bound the early foreign residents to the native race are being sundered. In no direction is this more apparent than in the religious development of our various island communities. The foreign church work, varied and important beyond what is usual in communities of like size elsewhere, absorbs the energies and sympathies of foreign Christians in no small degree, and consequently draws away from the native churches, in greater or less degree, the fellowship and assistance which were so essential and beneficent in the early days.

There have been other causes which it is not necessary to allude to here, that have interrupted the former relations of cordiality between foreigners and natives. It is only necessary in this connection to call attention to the gradual disappearance of the causes which have led to this condition of things, and to the evident ushering in of a better era of confidence and good feeling. It is specially opportune to give play now to those kindly sentiments which characterized the days when Hawaiian church-life was at its best. A neglect to meet the obligation which the present opportunity offers, may, and probably will, seriously endanger the state of religion in all our churches, foreign as well as native. The reflex blessing of a good deed done is not more sure than the reflex damage resulting from an obligation not met.

I do not need to emphathize these obligations; for they are recognized and their urgency realized by the membership of this Society. I call attention to them anew that the spirit to meet them, which is abundantly apparent, may be stimulated and sustained by a consideration of the sources of inspiration which are included in this inheritance of responsibility.

And first, I would direct your attention to the inspiration which should come to us in the thought that in a preëminent sense the work of evangelizing Hawaii nei is our work. I do not mean by this the work solely of this society, nor in the best sense do I mean by this the work of any organization here at the islands. Rather, I mean the personal responsibility and service of Christian foreigners. In the arrangements of God's Providence he has brought it about that there should be residing in the Hawaiian Islands at this time of special evangelistic need, a body of intelligent men and women, of like faith and purpose with the early laborers here, who are ready to assume obligations of no mean proportions and to sustain every wise gospel effort by gifts and prayer. In God's Providence we are here, many as heirs by blood, some as heirs by the will of God; and being here, and being, as we trust, obedient unto the call of our inheritance, this is our work.

This, indeed, should likewise be our inspiration. There is an ownership in obligation that is its own stimulus. For there is back of such obligation a tremendous pressure, that, if we do not meet the responsibility which appeals with peculiar force to us, no one else is likely to feel the force of the appeal in anything like the same measure, nor can they, in any event, meet the obligation so advantageously and with such prospect of success. By a manful acceptance and discharge of responsibilities peculiarly our own, we shall attract help from others. So much then is dependent on our attitude toward the resumption of missionary effort among Hawaiians, so much is possible in behalf of the race by faithfulness on our part, and by a due recognition of the extent and bearing of our responsibility that we ought to feel within us the promptings of a high and holy enthusiasm.

The marching orders of the Christian church are, "Disciple all nations." In this vast undertaking Christian strategy plays its part, but this evidently does not mean that the vantage points are all in the midst of dense populations or on continental shores. No finer display of missionary strategy lights up the horizon of Christian conquest than the advent of the early Christians on the coasts of Britain. Isolated, barbarous, and apparently powerless to affect the destinies of the world, Britain might easily have been neglected in the onward movement of Christian zeal. The world is propelled by ideas. The heroism of missionaries on islands in the Pacific has electrified the Christian world and given propulsion to mission work such as most roseate tables of statistical growth in India or Turkey or China have been powerless to accomplish. A drifting canoe-load of Micronesians in whose hearts the Gospel of Christ has found lodgement, is picked up by a passing vessel in mid-Pacific, carried to Asia and thence to America on their way back to their island home, affording an illustration in their daily demeanor of Christian fortitude and faithfulness that has been rarely surpassed in the annals of Christian dynamics.

There is inspiration for us in the thought that, relatively, Christian effort in these islands is so important and essential to the world's salvation. The commercial and political importance of the Hawaiian Islands is out of all proportion to area and population. Recent complications in the Pacific have lent fresh emphasis to the fact that this importance hinges on location. It is this fact which likewise makes these islands so essential to the progress of Christianity in the world. A comparatively small outlay of missionary funds and of missionary forces can be made to preëempt this land for Christ to the end of time. A sustained and aggressive Christian faith and practice in this mere speck on the bosom of the broad Pacific makes itself felt wherever steam or canvas carries men over the sea. There can be no such faith and practice worthy the name which stands idly by unmoved at even the suggestion of spiritual decadence close at hand. World-wide is the testimony which these islands must give either for Christ or against Him. Where else is it possible for a single laborer in the vineyard to so widely affect the ultimate conversion of the world as by personal endeavor for Christ in this land where every Christian life is magnified ten-fold in its bearing on the dominant type of civilization.

The ideal Christian life like Carlyle's ideal man needs to be four-square. But in Hawaii nei, the Christian who is true to his high estate and comes up to the measure of his heritage, is decahedral in the facings of his character and influence on Gospel effort at home and abroad. One Christian life nobly lived here makes its pulse-beat felt on every ship that leaves our shores, in every port where the white wings of commerce swell, in the teeming cities of inland China, in circles of Japanese diplomacy, in the city that looks out on the world through Golden Gates, in the lone islands to the west and south, in prosperous Australia, in distant mission fields where weary hearts are nerved to fresh endeavor by the story of faithful occupancy of consecrated soil, in the quiet homes which supply the means and men to sustain the effort for the world's redemption.

In our limited population the relative value of individual souls in its bearing on the character of our civilization, and on the redemptive work of Christianity abroad in the world is so great that it should lend inspiration to every laborer in the vineyard. What may be done in the way of begetting Christian hope and purpose in one heart here, is equivalent in the total effect of Christian influence to a like result in the hearts of ten in inland China or Japan. A Christian community of twenty thousand in India or China or Japan does not begin to measure the value and influence of such a community in this highway of the nations.

Our inheritance of responsibility is great, but the sources of inspiration are more than adequate to hold us to the highest type of constancy in Christian endeavor. Let no evil spirit of pessimism rob us of our birth-right and defraud us of our blessing.
